

Tanya Hart Bio

Innovator/ Business Developer/ Marketer and Strategist.

Tanya has spent a 35+ year career as a business developer and pioneering innovative entrepreneur. Her expertise spans business development/strategy, branding, marketing, retail, and distribution in the Wine Industry, transitioning decades of expertise into material engineering technology innovations for Plastics, Bioplastics, Nano materials, Hemp, Graphene and Green Building.

As CEO of Titan Bioplastics, Tanya has led her team and company from its inception and positioned it as an emerging global leader in Biomaterial composites and Nano technologies in a mere 24 months. Recently cited as one of the top four- 4/97- global companies to watch in nano technology and barrier properties for packaging- by Startus-Insights February 2020 Issue, Titan Bioplastics provides commercial sustainable material engineering solutions to companies building and enhancing their sustainability directives to meet upcoming global mandates.

Tanya has positioned Titan Bioplastics to lead this segment of industry with innovative, insertable cost efficient technologies, like Graphene and Graphene oxide that will change the way plastics and other materials, are formulated, compounded and used in today's manufacturing.

The initial 15 years of Tanya's career were spent managing multi-million-dollar wine portfolios and wineries, distributor regional and national sales teams with the world's largest wine/liquor distribution company, Southern Wine & Spirits. In 2002, Tanya left to open her first fine wine shop in Hinsdale, Illinois. Within 12 months she had changed legal legislation to expand her business successfully across three cities, being the first liquor licenses to activate in each township. All three locations were sold in 2010.

President - Hart Wine Group was formed early 2011 to advance and promote wine in alternative packaging. As a seasoned brand builder, Tanya sourced wine, created blends, developed and marketed brands in alternative packaging for national chain restaurants, retailers and distributors. Tanya's expertise is founded in business strategy and development. She can take a product/concept from inception all the way through production and distribution, to the shelf. Tanya appeared regularly as a public speaker, and on Chicago NBC network Television as a Wine & Food expert, as well as in several publications as an innovator for her industry.

Tanya is a visionary, activator, communicator, and decisive leader, with extensive expertise as a business developer and consulting strategist, working with varied team dynamics.

Tanya retains her passion for wine and loves to cook. She lives in Seattle with her husband Shep of 28 years and Augie dog, she enjoys the outdoors – rowing, kayaking, and hiking, has a daughter recently graduated with her MS, living and working in DC, and a college football athlete son.
